Professors from USA

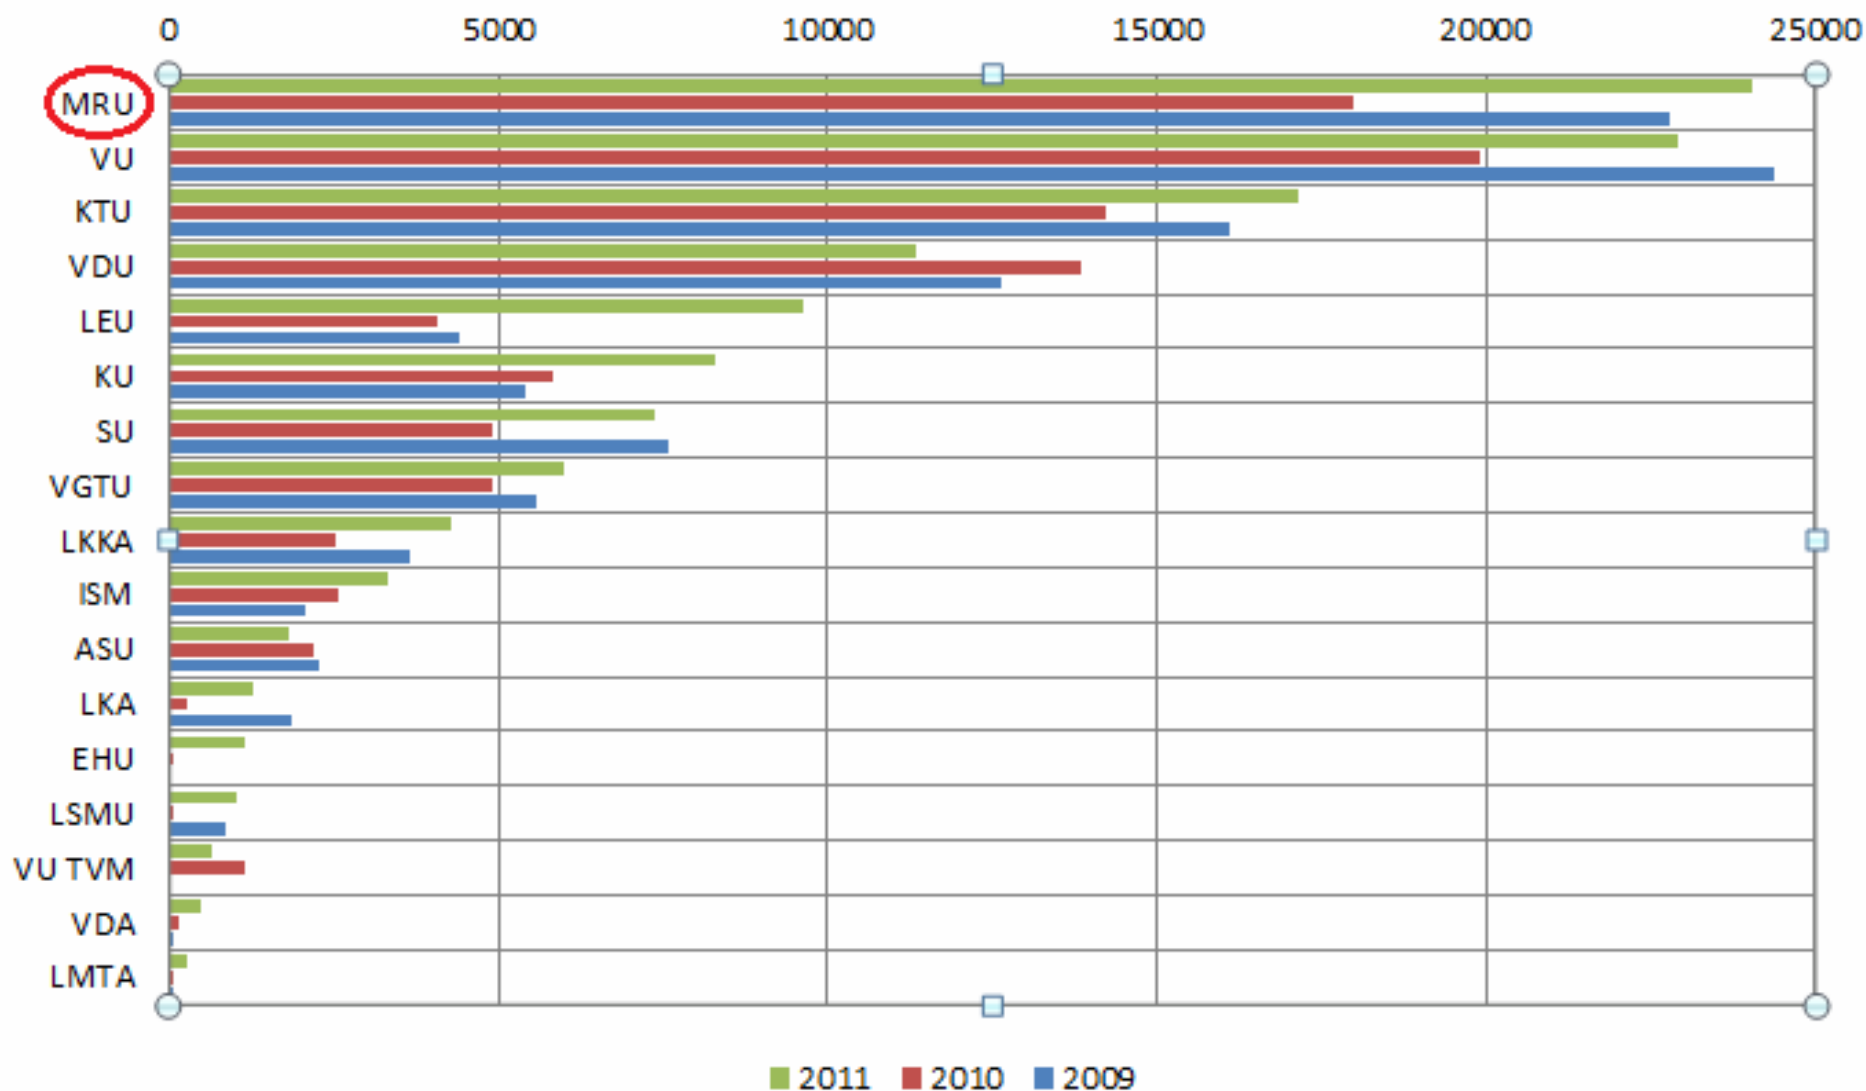

Stephen Garrett

PhD (Trinity International University, near Chicago, IL) is an associate professor of Public Theology and Philosophy of Religion in the Social Communications Institute at Lithuania University of Educational Sciences (LEU) where he teaches courses on social values and international social work. As part of the Princeton Theological Monograph Series, his forthcoming book, God's Beauty-in-Act (Pickwick Publications, 2013), explores the relationship between God's beauty and human imagining, arguing that the imagination is necessary for fitting moral action in an unjust world.

Teri McCarthy

holds a PhD in education with an emphasis in Second Language Acquisition from the University of Kansas, USA. She has worked with the International Institute for Christian Studies (www.iics.com) since 1996. She has taught at the university level long-term in China and Russia and short-term in Holland, Nigeria and Afghanistan. Teri is an associate professor of English philology at Lithuania University of Educational Sciences (LUES) in Vilnius. She has taught in Lithuania since 2010. Teri's work has taken her to over 50 countries where she has taught and held faculty development seminars.

Welcome to Vilnius University

Vilnius University

Established in 1579

The oldest and largest Lithuanian higher education institution is an active participant in international scientific and academic activities.

Mission

- To maintain freedom of thought and diversity of opinions
- To develop a integrity of research and studies
- To conduct a broad spectrum of fundamental and applied research
- To pursue international excellence in the interdisciplinary research

Short History of Vilnius University

- 1570: a Jesuit college is established in the city of Vilnius.
- 1579: On April 1, King Stephen Bathory issues a charter, proclaiming the transformation of the college into an establishment of higher education. On October 30, Pope Gregory XIII issues a papal bull confirming the transformation.
- 1641: The Faculty of Law is established.
- 1753: The Astronomical Observatory is set up.
- 1773: The Jesuit Order is dissolved in Europe and the University is put under the secular authority.
- 1781: the Faculty of Medicine is founded.
- 1803: The University is named Imperial.
- 1832: The University is closed down by order of tsar Nicholas I.
- 1919: The University reopens and is soon taken over by the Polish government after the annexation of the Vilnius region by Poland.
- 1939: The University is brought back under the control of Lithuania.
- 1940: The University is reorganised according to the model of higher schools of the Soviet Union.
- 1943: On March 17 the University is closed down by the Nazis.
- 1944: In autumn the University resumes its work.
- 1979: The 400th anniversary of the University is celebrated.
- 1990: Lithuania having restored its independence, the University regains autonomy and its statute is adopted.

Vilnius University Today

Currently, the University has 12 faculties, 7 institutes, 3 university hospitals, the oldest Library in Lithuania (established 1570), Astronomical Observatory, Botanical Garden, St Johns' Church.

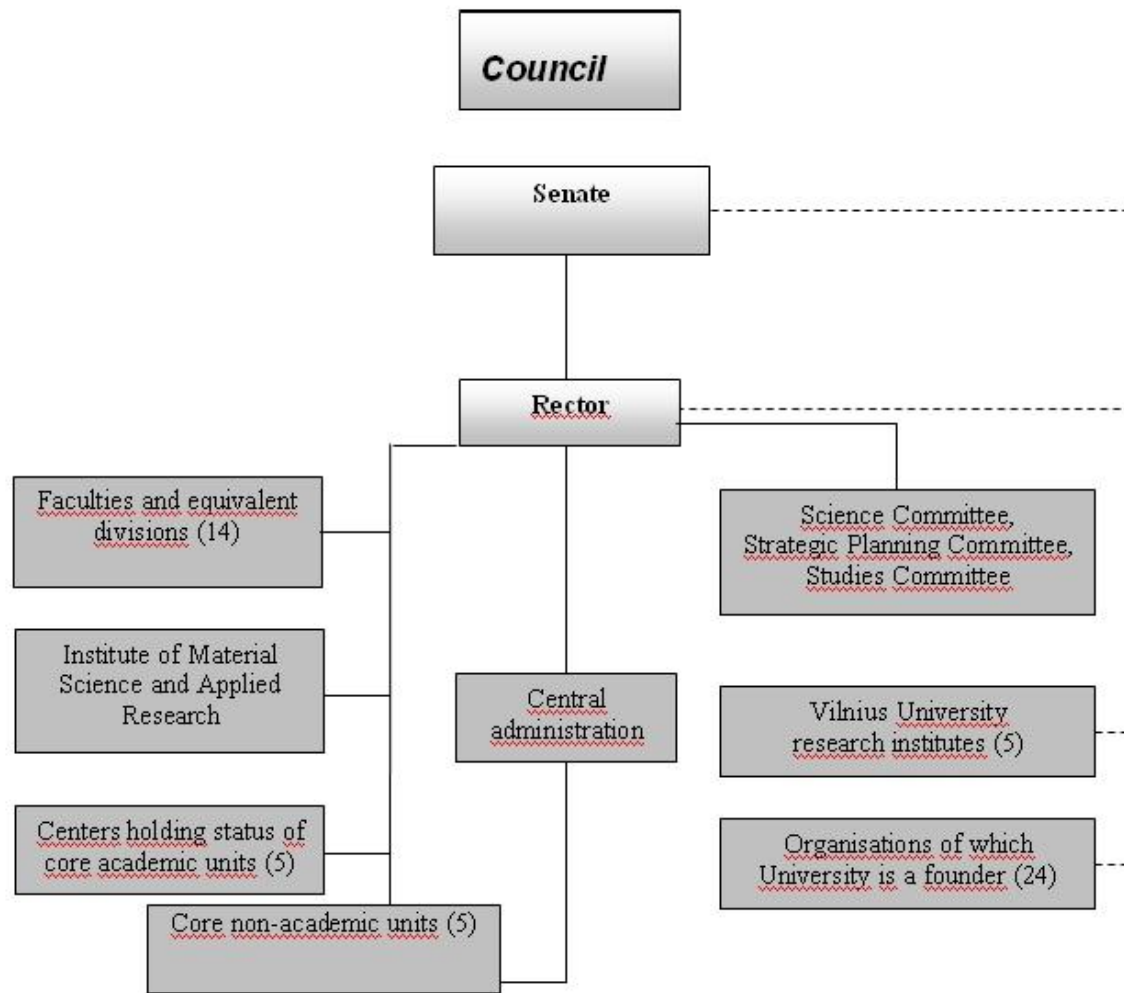

University campuses

- There are eight academic campuses, scattered all over the city of Vilnius.
- The Faculty of Humanities in Kaunas is the only faculty of Vilnius University established in a different city other than the main campuses
- The Old Campus extends over a whole block of the Old Town. At present the Rector's Office, the Library, the Institute of Foreign Languages, the Faculties of Philology, Philosophy and History, as well as some interdisciplinary centres are situated in the old town.
